Summary

The Royal Belgian Institute of Natural Sciences (RBINS) and the Royal Museum for Central Africa (RMCA), want to engage a broad audience in the valorization of the entomology, ornithology and wood biology collections through using virtual crowdsourcing platforms and through physical Citizen Science (CS) investigation actions. A very small percentage of the data in the collections is digitized and accessible. CRESKO will respond to this burning need, in an era of data-driven policies and services. One virtual action (RBINS) and one onsite (RMCA) action will be carried out during the 6-month Accelerator. The data will be published in open access on the online collection database Darwin.
